

Problem of the Month

November 2022

In a mathematics department the professors are in k different mathematical fields and from n different countries, where $k < n$.

Show that there are at least $n - k + 1$ such professors who have more fellow-researchers (in the same mathematical field), than compatriots.